Design Educates

Architecture and design can be inspiring and educational. They can change our thoughts, feelings and even our actions. The Design Educates competition is based on this hypothesis. The winning designs are those that provide additional value beyond aesthetics and function. Social and sustainability aspects, in particular, are at the forefront. This year, many projects draw on the themes of sharing knowledge, fostering community, low-tech solutions, traditional know-how and local resources, as well as state-of-the-art digital tools and AI.

The international presentation series "architecture in the foyer" is dedicated to authentic insights from architects. Their philosophy and projects are the central focus of the day. Once again, we have acquired renowned speakers from Europe and overseas. However different their backgrounds, work styles, focal points and attitudes to architectural issues may be, they have a lot in common because they don't think of architecture in isolation, but within the larger and smaller context. They put people at the centre and create useful, empowering and motivating buildings with added value. Accordingly, the day follows on seamlessly from the Design Educates Awards. We look forward to lots of in-person impressions, encounters and faces.
